

Ladies European Tour heads for season finale at Dubai Ladies Masters

Gwladys Nocera's victory in last week's EMAAR-MGF Ladies Masters in Bangalore has thrown the race for the Ladies European Tour's New Star Money List wide open ahead of the season-ending Dubai Ladies Masters, which gets under way at the Emirates Golf Club from December 13 to 16 this week.

The victory, worth €30,000, puts the French star into fifth place with earnings of €190,425 from 20 events played this season on the European Ladies Tour.

Germany's Bettina Hauert continues to lead the LET New Star Money List with €218,588, closely followed by Sweden's Sophie Gustafson in second place with €214,756. England's Trish Johnson (€195,467) and Sweden's Maria Hjorth (€192,657) occupy third and fourth spots respectively. The winner of the €500,000 Dubai Ladies Masters will walk home with a first prize of €75,000 which means that any player among the top 10 on the New Star Money List could be crowned the 2007 European champion. Sweden's Annika Sorenstam defends the Dubai Ladies Masters and is aiming for her first victory in 2007. The event boasts an incredible field, featuring 11 of the 12

European Solheim Cup players.

18th Hole at Emirates Golf Club Will Prove Pivotal for the Dubai Ladies Masters

The 18th Hole at Emirates Golf Club will be pushed back as much as 25 yards for this year's Dubai Ladies Masters, however it is likely to continue to produce great drama and memorable moments equal or better to any of the famous finishes that have taken place over the better part of two decades.

"Anything is possible," stated Vice Chairman and CEO Mohamed Buamaim referring to the unpredictability of the 500-yard Par 5 18th Hole, evidenced by the 'nail-biting' finishes over the years. This was never more the case than during the 2001 Dubai Desert Classic when Tiger Woods' approach found the water opening the door for Thomas Bjorn to take the home the trophy in an epic final round battle.

The 'Official Car' of the Dubai Ladies Masters, BMW is proud to contribute an additional element of excitement to Emirates Golf Club's finishing hole, offering a beautiful BMW Z4 Coupe for the Professional that scores an Albatross (Double Eagle 2) on the Par 5 18th Hole.

Nocera takes EMAAR-MGF Masters

Gwladys Nocera from France claimed her fifth Ladies European Tour title at the inaugural EMAAR-MGF Masters in India on Saturday.

Nocera led from the first to the last but a tense final day battle with compatriot Virginie Lagoutte-Clement ensured an exciting and dramatic finish. From the first round, the 32-year-old from Moulins never relinquished her lead and she defeated Lagoutte-Clement by one shot with a total of seven-under-par 281 after a final round of 71, one-under-par.

It was Nocera's fifth win on Tour in two seasons and her second of the year after she won the KLM Ladies Open in Holland in June. However she also won the Princess Lalla Meryem Cup in Rabat, Morocco, at the end of October, which was not a Ladies European Tour event.

Who will be the Ryder Cup Wales Rookie of the Year?

This week's Dubai Ladies Masters is the final event on the 2007 Ladies European Tour calendar and come Sunday evening, the leading first year Tour player will be named the Ryder Cup Wales Rookie of the Year, in association with the Bill Johnson Trophy. Sweden's Louise Stahle is the leading rookie heading into the final week, with earnings of €79,678.66 from 13 tournaments. Her closest challenger is South Korea's Amy Yang with €57,796.47 from nine tournaments and England's Kiran Matharu is back in third with €56,999.25 from 14 events.

Stahle is currently well ahead, with Yang needing a top four finish to catch her in Dubai. However the talented Yang did finish tied for fourth in the tournament last year, and is known to play well in hot conditions. Yang joined the LET last year after her superb victory at the ANZ Ladies Masters as a 16-year-old amateur, but this is her official rookie year.

Stahle, 22, from Lund in Sweden, is playing in her first year as a member of the LET, but has plenty of experience behind her. She was an exempt member of the LPGA Tour in 2006, the year she also finished tied for third in the ANZ Ladies Masters playing on a sponsor's invitation. In her rookie year on the LET she has posted four top tens, with her best finish second in the Ladies Open of Portugal.

England's Melissa Reid makes professional debut

Lydia Hall from Wales, Denise-Charlotte Becker from Germany and Holland's Marjet van der Graaff competed in their first LET events since qualifying for the Ladies Tour last week in India. This week, England's Melissa Reid becomes the latest LET newcomer to make her professional debut at a Ladies European Tour event in the Dubai Ladies Masters. The 19-year-old from Derbyshire is playing on a sponsor's invitation courtesy of the tournament organisers, golf in Dubai. The other players in the field who have received invites are Smriti Mehra and Shalini Malik from India, Natalie Gulbis from the USA, Hee Jung Kim and Ha-Neul Kim from South Korea, Marjet Van der Graaff, Norway's Cecilie Lundgreen, Mounya Amalou-Sayah from Morocco, Chutchai Porani from Thailand and Spanish amateur Carlota Ciganda.
